

Remote Meeting Experience

We believe that most of the current remote communication and collaboration applications have a lot of limitations and ignore how humans communicate naturally.

Video chats can feel awkward and are exhaustive due to the extra cognitive processing, for example they don't help us catch non verbal cues, etc.

On the other hand a lot of collaboration tools are either very generic or very complex to use, and don't provide an integrated experience that would allow to "stay in the zone" and not get distracted by struggling with the tool.

We're exploring a solution to change this.
Help us fix this together!
